

PROFESSIONAL PROFILE

Dr. Elena Marsh

Lecturer in Business Communication | Founder, Northlight Learning Studio

Elena teaches business communication at university level and now brings the same clarity to working professionals. Through Northlight Learning Studio she runs workshops and one-to-one coaching that help people write, present and persuade with confidence, whether they are leading a team, pitching a project or returning to study.

How I help

01 Presentation coaching

One-to-one sessions that turn a nervous presenter into a clear, credible speaker, with structure, delivery and slide design covered in four sessions.

02 Business writing workshops

Half-day and full-day team workshops on emails, reports and proposals that get read, decided on and acted upon.

03 Course and curriculum design

Support for training teams and educators who need engaging, well-sequenced learning materials for in-person or online delivery.

TEAM WORKSHOP

Business Writing Essentials

Half-day workshop for teams | Online or on-site | Up to 16 participants

Overview

Most workplace writing fails for one of three reasons: the point arrives too late, the reader has to work too hard, or the next step is unclear. This workshop fixes all three with a simple structure participants can apply the same afternoon.

Who it is for

- Team members who write emails, reports or proposals every week
- New managers giving written feedback and updates
- Technical specialists writing for non-specialist readers

Agenda

TIME	MODULE	WHAT PARTICIPANTS PRACTISE
9:00	Start with the point	Rewriting real emails so the decision or request comes first
10:00	Write for the reader	Cutting jargon, shortening sentences, using headings and lists
11:00	Make the next step obvious	Clear calls to action, deadlines and ownership
12:00	Apply it	Participants rewrite one document from their own inbox and receive feedback

What participants leave with

- A three-part structure for any email, report or proposal
- A one-page editing checklist
- One real document rewritten and reviewed
